DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. Figures 6 and 7 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mortimer (U.S. Patent No. 6,099,012).

Mortimer discloses an apparatus having all elements as broadly claimed, including three “prongs” (vertical section labeled 58 in Fig. 3, and the two vertical side sections of horizontal channel 62) capable of retaining a plate spring, the apparatus having a first plate (58) having the first prong and a second plate (horizontal channel) having the second and third prongs, the first and second plates being connected to each other (by diagonal channel 60), and are also transverse to each other. Note that regarding the broad language that the attachment is “for insertion”, or “for retaining a plate spring”, it is noted that “the absence of a disclosure relating to function does not defeat the finding of anticipation. It is well settled that the recitation of a new intended use for an old product does not make a claim to that old product patentable.” See In re Schreiber (CAFC) 44 USPQ2d 1429. This functional language has not been given patentable weight because it is narrative in form. In order to be given patentable weight, a functional recitation must be expressed as a “means” for performing the specified function, as set forth in 35 U.S.C. 112, 6th paragraph, and must be supported by recitation in the claim of sufficient structure to warrant the presence of the functional language. See In re Fuller, 1929 C.D. 172; 388 O.G. 279.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Estes (U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2003/0123964), Kallstrom (U.S. Patent No. 5,735,410), Brown (U.S. Patent No. 4,473,334), Nespor (U.S. Patent No. 5,628,609), Young et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,315,515 B1), Lock (U.S. Patent No. 4,859,134), and Collins (U.S. Patent No. 5,795,115) disclose towing devices securing vehicle wheels and/or spring assemblies.
